From the Founder's Desk

Radha, a young single mother and eager learner could learn first three chapters of the primer with her son in a weeks' time. And then, she had to opt for a 12-hour job, with 2 more hours on commuting. Her priority changed and could not see any benefits of being literate. Razina, mother of three children, studied up to class Vth, an eager learner, who wished to pursue education. However, due to her husband's health issues, she had to start working and her education took a back seat.

There are crores of Radha, Razina, Rabi, Rahul, who has a story behind their growing up as non-literate. CSC started the year with training of teachers on teaching such adults who missed an opportunity to become literate. And most of the time it was that situational need which kept them away from formal education, where they had to choose between family poverty and self-education.

Online course on Certificate in Counselling Skills aimed at providing a base to the professionals working in the helping service sectors. Three batches were conducted during the year. through experiential teaching, to make them aware of counselling skills and their implementation process, and to help them to be better equipped with counselling skills.

CSC: Centre for Social Change

About Us

Centre for Social Change, CSC, is a charitable organization, registered under Trust Act on 5th February, 2018. It is designed as a hub for people and organizations where thoughts assimilate to create amalgamation of resources so that need based actions could be taken to make change sustainable. We, at CSC, come together and contribute towards a most needed positive social change by engaging communities creatively and effectively to co-create a better future. We uphold the principles of secularism, transparency, and accountability in all of our activities.

Our Vision

Community empowerment through people's participation, co-creation, and values.

Our Mission

Our mission is to create a neighbourhood where people collectively contribute towards the relief of poverty, an improved socio-economic environment, and bring about positive changes.

Our approach of working with the communities is influenced by first hand understanding of community needs and techniques of experiential learning obtained from the field of development and social change which generate well-being of people in a community.

Our Work

CSC believes that everyone in this world is looking for a positive change. To make the changes happen as the way we wish to see, CSC focuses on its activity based on community need. To instil the feeling of belonging to a community, to imbibe the thoughts and values of social responsibility and to focus on self-development, CSC intervenes in communities through following programmes

Gaon Mera: Green and Clean Community - Environment building

To live life in a beautiful village is the dream for many of us and it always remains as a dream as we are constantly in search of livelihood, from better to best.

More than thirty percent of rural youth migrates to metro cities and nearby urban towns in search of livelihood. As they come with a purpose to earn livelihood, they come with a vision to earn money and go back to the village once they earn enough. However, they never earn enough to go back to their village and in the process they remain as a migrant in a small town or in a big city throughout their life. Gaon Mera focuses on bringing all shareholders of a community to one platform and co-create the dream of living in a clean and green environment a reality.

Ajeevan Siksha : Lifelong learning

Ignited Minds: Focuses on children, adolescents and youth in building up their self-esteem and training them to be socially responsible.

Khilta Bachpan: The programme aims at helping children to enhance their learning abilities through focused intervention and playful activities.

Health for life: A healthy body with a healthy mind, focuses on people's awareness about health care, emotional and psychological well-being, counselling and change towards positive thought process.

Learn and teach: To encourage adults and senior citizens to learn new skills as well as excel in the skills they have. A certification of prior learning to such skilled persons to facilitate teaching to the younger generations.

SwabalambyHum:Economic empowerment

Empowerment comes along with the economic independence of self. This could be achieved by enhancing one's skills and knowledge. To facilitate youth to learn skills to produce and earn livelihood, thereby, contributing towards a sustainable economic growth of the self and family, CSC supports a training cum production centre at the Community.

Action Research:

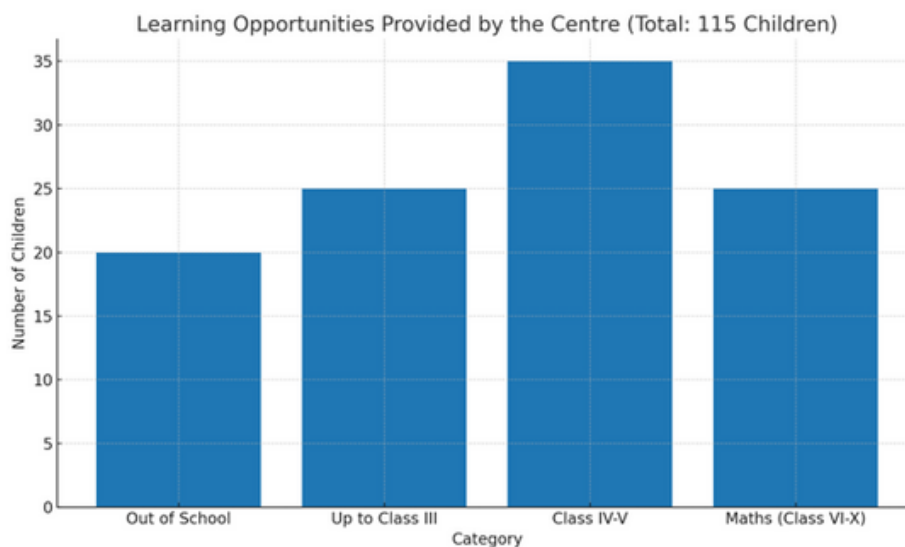

This area is mainly responsible for conducting research and providing policy feedback and inputs to policymakers. Publishing books, reports, policy briefs and promoting innovative development techniques and approaches are also part of its responsibilities.

Profile of the beneficiaries

Centre for Social Change (CSC) was conducting its change-oriented implementation activities at village Barola, Sector 49, Noida since February, 2018.

CSC was working with the families of marginalised-migrated families mostly from Uttar Pradesh and other neighbouring states, such as Bihar and Jharkhand.

During the year the centre provided learning opportunities to children, who were out of school (total 20), studying up to class III (25), studying in class IV-V (Total 35), mathematics for students from VI-X (total 25), a total of 115 children. Reference to the BMI index of all these children nearly 65% of the children were malnourished.

For children studying up to class III, 75% of mothers were working as domestic helper, whereas, children studying from class IV-V, about 40% mothers were housewives, and for children studying in class VI onwards, only 5% mothers were working as domestic helpers. 65% of mothers were not literate.

Fathers were working in various capacities such as driver, e-rickshaw puller, tailor, vegetable seller and others. Average income of the families are Rs.15000/- per month.

From the second quarter of the year CSC started its intervention in the slum of sector 76, where majority of the families were migrants from West Bengal, Bihar and Uttar Pradesh. Almost all the mothers are domestic helpers and fathers are vegetable sellers.

Activities briefly:

Maa-ki-Pathsala – Empowering Mothers through Literacy

The CSC community is primarily composed of migrant and marginalised families, where over 65% of mothers are non-literate. While many of these women wish to learn, financial responsibilities keep them occupied with work, leaving little time for personal growth. For mothers in their late thirties, reluctance to return to learning poses an additional challenge. Recognising the transformative impact of educating mothers, CSC identified adult female literacy as a key focus area, calling for trained volunteers to take the lead.

On 3rd April 2021, the Centre for Social Change organised an online training programme for volunteer teachers, led by Dr. Mridula Seth, an expert in adult literacy. The session was based on a literacy primer developed by the Department of Development Communication and Extension, Lady Irwin College, New Delhi. The training emphasised the significance of adult education, effective teaching methods for adult learners, and strategies for creating an encouraging learning environment.

By the end of the session, 80% of participants committed to taking the vaccine.

The programme proved to be highly interactive and impactful, fostering trust, dispelling myths, and encouraging collective responsibility towards health and safety.

Summary at a glance:

Migrated families often face immense challenges while relocating—finding shelter, securing livelihood, and adapting to new environments. For those from marginalised communities, these challenges are even greater. One of the most invisible victims of this struggle are the children. On the top of it, sudden attack of Covid 19 pandemic in the lives and livelihood of migrated people created havocs in their lives and worst sufferer are children/girls and women. Many children dropped out and girls were getting married at an early age. Centre for Social Change appeals to people to participate actively in this endeavour of change and make change happen in each of our neighbourhood.
